

PAULIST CHORISTERS
TO SING HERE APRIL 30

Famous Male Choir of Chicago Will Give Two Concerts in South Bend.

An engagement of unusual interest is that of the Paulist Choristers, of Chicago, who will give two concerts at the Oliver Thursday, April 30. The society of choristers is an organization unique in the history of music. It is the only choral society of men and boys in the world. They have been the prize winners of two continents, and the complete organization which so impressed the judges at the Great International Competition, of Paris, in May, 1912, will be heard here. Chief among these is the peculiar tonal coloring, characteristic of the combined high and low male voices, which probably constitutes the center of musical interest in the singing of this chorus. In other important matters, such as rhythmic precision, the singers leave nothing to be wished for, and are particularly notable in the soprano and alto choirs. These choirs, composed of the youngest members of the chorus, also disclose the most remarkable feature of the performance, namely, the singing of the most complicated contrapuntal numbers without the aid of scores. Choral singers rarely master their parts well enough to sing them from memory, and it is altogether novel to hear of little boys sopranos and altos sing an entire program, and with such certainty, without their notes.

VAN AIKEN TO TAKE UP CHAUTAUQUA WORK

Conservatory.

Kendrie, of Boston, a violinist of note, has been secured by the conservatory faculty to fill the place of Hal Van Aiken, who will leave in June to join the Redpath Bureau, of Chicago for chautauqua work in the summer, and lyceum work in the winter season. Mr. Kendrie has been with the St. Louis Symphony orchestra during the present season. He will take up his work here about May 1, and will be heard for the first time in South Bend on the program of the program Tuesday evening, May 12, at the Oliver with Jenny DeFau. He will also be one of the artists and lecturers at the state convention of the Indiana Music Teachers' association which is to be held in Logansport, April 26 and May 1.

VACCINATE TO SAVE
HOGS, EXPERTS ADVISE
ST. JOSEPH FARMERS

That the anti-hog cholera campaign conducted in St. Joseph county Friday and Saturday will be a great benefit to the farmers is the opinion of John S. Borden, county agent. Large numbers of farmers attended the meetings and considerable enthusiasm is being shown. The need of vaccination was especially being laid before the farmers by W. C. Schwab and Dr. C. T. Clark of Purdue. Both speakers pointed to the need of using the proper serum for vaccination and laid emphasis on the skill required. The county campaign was concluded Saturday afternoon. A session was held Friday night at Lydick and one was held at the Gleaner hall in Center township Thursday night, when the campaign opened. At both meetings there were a large number present. An automobile tour of the county was made and more than 25 farms on which hogs are raised principally was visited.

DEATHS.

MRS. JULIA JANE HARTMAN.
Mrs. Julia Jane Hartman, 51, wife of E. J. Hartman, of Center township, died at her residence on the Michigan road, Friday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock. She was taken suddenly ill Monday evening about 7 o'clock and congestion of the brain set in, which caused her death. Besides her husband, she is survived by one daughter, Ruth, at home.

Mrs. Hartman's death is attributed to a nervous breakdown, as she has always had the welfare of others at heart, and attended the bedside of the sick and dying night and day when her help was needed. This and the manifold duties of her household have weighed heavily upon her, and she could not stand the strain. She was well liked by all who knew her and was ever of a sunny and cheerful disposition. She was a prominent member of the Lakeville Grange.

She was born in Green township, April 1, 1862. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stover. She has lived in St. Joseph county all her life. She was married in 1885 to E. J. Hartman.

The funeral will be held from the residence, five miles south of town on the Michigan road, Monday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. J. O. Mosler, pastor of the Mizpah Evangelical church officiating. Burial will be in Palmer's Prairie cemetery.

SHOE STRING VENDER
LANDS IN COURT; ROW
OVER $5 GOLD PIECE

Frank Bennett, 65 years old, of Detroit, a shoe string peddler, who has been making a house to house canvass of South Bend this week, landed in jail Saturday accused of trying to swindle a west ender out of a five dollar gold piece. Two women appeared against him. One said he sold her shoe strings for which she paid him what she at the time thought was three pennies, but later learned was two pennies and a five dollar gold piece. She said the man tried to get away from her when she discovered her mistake. He made his apologies to the court and was taken to the city limits and "ousted."

Day's Developments Dramatic.
Today's developments at the white house were dramatic in the extreme. The president left for a golf game at 9:30 o'clock this morning. At 10 o'clock Secretary to the President Tumulty left the white house to confer with Secretary Bryan concerning a long dispatch which had just been received from Charge O'Shaughnessy. At 11 o'clock Tumulty and Bryan stepped into a waiting automobile and dashed to the Washington Country club where the president was golfing. They arrived there about 11:20, Bryan spoke to the president for a moment, indicating merely that Huerta had turned down the United States' demand and the president, his jaw set, ordered his chauffeur to get him back to the white house as soon as possible.

The big white house automobile tore along the Virginia pike at full speed. Even crossing the bridge into Washington the car made 49 miles an hour and the mile from the bridge to the white house was made in less than a minute and a half through the city streets.

Within 15 minutes of the president's arrival the final ultimatum to the Mexican dictator was on the wire.

No More Quibbling.
Provisional President Huerta's reply to President Wilson's last demand for satisfaction for the insult to the American flag at Tampico, reached the state department early today.

Although administration officials were optimistic as to the outcome, they clearly indicated that they are determined that Huerta shall be made to toe the mark of reparation, and there will be no more "quibbling". This attitude was reflected in the announcement by Secretary of the Navy Daniels that the Virginia, Ohio and Connecticut, of the third division of the Atlantic fleet, probably would be ordered from drydock to sail for Mexican waters on April 26 or 27. These ships are undergoing slight repairs, he said, which will not be completed until that time, and until the ships are ready no orders will be issued to them. He stated that the seven ships of the Pacific fleet ordered to reinforce Admiral Howard would be distributed at Mazatlan, Acapulco and Topolobampo, but said that no further vessels of that fleet would be dispatched south at present.

Senators Impatient.
Impatience with the attitude of the Mexican leader was the keynote of talk in the senate cloakrooms and around the house corridors at the capitol. Everyone discussed the Mexican situation in preference to law-making and everyone apparently was agreed that no temporizing with Huerta was in order. The senators especially were a unit in approving the administration's demand.

The invasion of Mexico, beyond the landing of marines at Vera Cruz and Tampico, was not established as a probability. Sentiment favored the idea that the United States should in case of hostilities allow the constitutionalists to drive Huerta from power while it contented itself with holding custom ports and thereby cutting off the maintenance of his army.

Incident Not Closed.
"The Tampico incident is not closed," said Secretary of State Bryan today when asked as to the purport of the dispatches received from Charge O'Shaughnessy on the Mexican situation. The secretary of state then went to the white house to acquaint President Wilson with Huerta's latest reply to the demands of the United States.

The president meanwhile had gone to the Country club for a game of golf and Secretary Bryan and Secretary Tumulty hurried in an automobile to the club, the secretary of state carrying a digest of the Huerta reply to present to the president. Neither would add anything to Mr. Bryan's machine.

Everything is Ready.
"Everything is ready to move, provided the situation becomes serious," today declared Secretary of War Garrison, discussing the preparations of the army.

Secretary Garrison indicated that a request by Senator Sheppard, of Texas, for more troops on the border would be met. General Bliss today wired Secretary Garrison that he would send troops along the border to find the exact needs at every portion, and the secretary intimated that this might mean an increase in the force later.

The war department now has on the border about 6,000 soldiers—five regiments of cavalry and two regiments of infantry. Between 41,000 and 42,000 soldiers, carrying the coast artillery, are ready for immediate service, the secretary said. He declined to say what troops would move first in case serious developments occurred.

That the situation is regarded with extreme seriousness, however, was indicated by the secretary's statement that he doubted his ability to spare any regular troops for a possible militia encampment in South Carolina.

"With matters as they are on the border," he said, "I don't know whether we could let the state have any of the usual assignment of regulars."

PASSAIC, N. J.—After shouting his intention, Andrew Kopac, outdistanced a large crowd in a four-block run to the river and jumped in. His body floated away in the night.

SAY BILINSKI QUILTS
RACE FOR RECORDER

It was reported Saturday that Frank Bilinski, former city clerk, has withdrawn from the race for the democratic nomination for county recorder, leaving Bert E. Klysz an open field. This was given out following a conference held Friday, but has not been confirmed by the former clerk. Mr. Klysz was the candidate for recorder four years ago being defeated by Noah C. Accordingly unless other candidates develop Klysz will be without opposition at the primary.

Therefore Mrs. Saunders sues for $1,000 alimony.
